Right: Loyal seniors Becky Hatvany and Alison Wolf do not let the rainy weather at the Powderpuff game cloud their sunny dispositions.

Below Right: In an attempt to keep their humor fresh, Dan Boulton and Tim Frank bag it!

Below Left: They may not be the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders but with those winning smiles and shapely figures Greg Sagerman and Alex Bakos are well on their way to the cover of Vogue.

Laugh Together

Below: The smiles on the faces of Tom Dickson and Ellen Hurley prove Homecoming was never short of fun.

Study Together

Below: Homecoming court members Theresa Masuga and Jeff Baker enjoy their time on the floor to catch up on some old news.

Talk Together

Below Right: The Marching Bulldogs thunder through the stadium prior to a Friday night pregame performance.

Perform Together

Seen Together

Right: 'What's cookin' - Nancy Lake and Jeane Wolan prepare an appetizing assignment.

Below: Not just book worms, the library team of Mrs. Beresky and Mrs. Stetz find fun in filing.

Work Together

Below: Those powerful tuba players add a brassy note to the marching band ensemble.

Some Things Just Naturally Go Together

Being a small school, OFHS allows students the opportunity to develop a special blend of camaraderie. Whether it be in the classroom, in the cafeteria, in the gym, on the field, or simply in the halls, togetherness among friends is a part of going to school that everyone looks forward to, and no one will ever forget. In fact, some have been together since kindergarten and even earlier.

Finally, after graduation the long years of studying together, talking together, walking together, and being together are over. But in the years to come, when graduates reminisce about the 'good ol' days' in high school, they will remember who was with whom, doing what, and where. And that is because . . . 'Some Things Just Naturally Go Together.'

Left: It helps to be little when two friends like Susie Goetz and Bridget Justavick want to squeeze into the same chair.

Below: With eyes upward fans watch tradition on the rise.

A special thanks is extended to the 1983-84 Student Council for their generous contribution toward this year's SENORIO cover.

ABC Boosts Pride Of Honor Students

Academic achievement was the focus of the 4th annual Academic Honors Banquet held on March 15 at the Baldwin Wallace Student Union. To attend, freshmen were required to have a 4.0 grade point average, sophomores a 3.8, juniors a 3.7, and seniors a 3.6. Students and their parents enjoyed a buffet style dinner and music performed by Ron Palka on piano. Mr. Luteran and other faculty members in attendance found time to visit with students and their parents, as well as other staff and board members (below).

New Science Amazes Students

The newly formed Ecology/ Advanced Chemistry class was an adventure in two different sciences for 24 juniors and seniors.

The first semester was dedicated to pond study and other ecological aspects of science. Student ecologists gained knowledge of the woodlot through sample-taking and 'field' trips to the woodlot. One Friday night in the fall, class members stayed overnight at the high school to fulfill a 24 hour pond study assignment. Other projects included an extensive leaf project which covered all of the trees in the woodlot. Classes also dissected muskrats which Mr. Moore had trapped in the woodlot.

During the second semester, the once amateur ecologists switched allegiances to Mr. Venefra in order to begin their conquest of the world of organic chemistry. fabricating alcohol, aspirin, and soap from raw materials. Although lab time was not the time to fool around, the young chemists, such as Andrew Gilmartin and Carl Bartok, did manage to enjoy themselves creating these household goods (left).

Math Classes Give Snowflakes Warm Reception

Geometry class is one that will be remembered by many OFHS students. For those who have experienced this shapely subject, snowflakes were merely another December homework assignment, but for Mr. Lanning, snowflakes are nature's mathematical art.

Each contestant in the snowflake-creating contest folds, turns, and cuts his paper until the ultimate snowflake has been created. For many years, Mr. Lanning has sponsored this competition and judged each snowflake according to originality, intricacy, and over-all appeal.

This year, although all of the entries were potentially award-winning snowflakes, Ed Rindfleish's creations were exceptionally brilliant, thus earning him the task of creating 100 more equally smashing snowflakes to decorate Mr. Lanning's room.

'Pops' Was TOPS!

The annual Pops Concert was a brilliant display of talent. Highlights of the show included senior Jim Holt's performance of 'Before the Memories Take Their Toll', a song that he wrote. Seniors Jackie Morgan and Theresa Masuga also added their talent to the evening with their performance of 'Soldier Boy' (above). Derek Rimko, a four year choir veteran, concluded his high school choral career with a superb performance of 'Holly Holy.'

Behind the scenes in any production, are factors that are rarely seen by the audience. After selecting the music, vocalists rehearse the number for many months until they feel it is ready to be performed.

Not every act performs in the actual concert as each soloist or group must get the seal of approval from Mr. Wrable. From that point on, lyrics are memorized and emotion, dances, and gestures are choreographed to the music. Finally, on performance night, as the backstage jitters set in, each performer goes through his selection one final time. Then, it's on with the show!

Under the direction of Mr. Stuber, the jazz band performed 'Birdland' and 'Fancy Dancin.' Mr. Wrable directed the choirs in 'All Night Long,' a Lionel Richie favorite, and 'I Won't Hold You Back,' a Toto hit.

Trial Law Hits Basics

On February 29, 1978, Scott Free (Greg Sagerman) was seen breaking into the high school and stealing a tape recorder. Or was he? It was the duty of the second semester law class to determine whether or not Scott Free was guilty as charged.

Under the leadership of Mr. Winters and the Honorable Judge Vanderbilt (William Vanderbilt), the law class set up a court system complete with bailiffs, defendants, witnesses, plaintiffs, and attorneys. For a week, witnesses produced evidence during the testimony to the jury. Students in the class observed and experienced proper court proceedings and etiquette. In the case of Scott Free, the jury returned a verdict of innocent on all accounts.

With back-up artists Randy Hamrick and Jim Holt, Doug Fischer entrances the crowd, like all of the performers at the Pops Concert, with his rendition of 'Turns Me Inside Out.' Soloists and ensembles, like these men, made the 1984 Pops Concert one of the best in the history of OFHS. The talent and dedication ot these young musicians is only a part of the excellence at OFHS.

Preparing for a debate unit to be incorporated into the 11A literature classes, Mrs. Chubb used the '83-'84 juniors as guinea pigs (again) to determine interest, capability, and format procedures.

During a Project Week where groups of students presented investigations, slideshows, and community interview reports relating in some way to Emerson and Thoreau, some students opted to debate. After presentations of affirmative and negative views, class members cast ballots for the argument which was most convincingly presented. Debating man's role in society are Michelle Kalikin, Larry Bailer, Ron Sathre, and Holly Kress (below).

Creativity Sparks 'Images'

Accepting the challenge of organizing a creative writing contest, the English Department sponsored Images '84, a first for OFHS. Because it was an experimental year for the contest, teachers made the assignments in English classes; therefore, every OFHS student actually 'entered' the competition.

At an English Department meeting finalists were selected from the semi-final entries which had been chosen by the individual classroom teachers. Divided into separate judging areas of 9-10th grade and 11-12th grade, the five best poems and the five best prose works of each grade level were then judged by staff and administration outside of the English Department. At all levels of competition after the entries left the English classes, works were typed and unnamed. Chairman of Images '84 was Miss Chopp who did much of the original groundwork for the contest.

Images '84 Winners
11-12 Poetry: Holly Kress
11-12 Prose: Jim Holt

9-10 Poetry: Carey Arnholt
9-10 Prose: Leslie Slater

Polaris Students Discover Vocations

Students who attend Polaris participate in activities at OFHS as well as at Polaris.

Scholars Maintain Perfect Averages

Nearly 10% of the class of 1984 qualified as medalists, a new record for the three year old program. These students maintained a 3.5 grade point average during their high school careers. Although extra-curriculars are not included in the requirements, these eighteen students represented outstanding participants in the arts, sports, student government, and other associations within the school, as well as many church and community groups.

Among these superior scholars, four sustained perfect 4.0 grade point averages. (left) Tracy Behrend was known particularly for her performing ability and Key Club activities. Likewise, Ellen Hurley was very active in the Ohio district Key Club, and represented twelve high school clubs on the district board. Tracy Miller was very active in instrumental music at OFHS. Linda Kalikin, unlike any of the other valedictorians, was a letterman in several varsity sports.

Teamwork Serves Outstanding Show

The Masquers Club returned to the stage this year for another performance under the direction of Miss Chopp. The curtain was lifted on the comedy The Man Who Came to Dinner in November. For months beforehand, stagecrews hammered, and actors rehearsed to create the best possible performance.

Tryouts for lead roles were competitive for the 1983-1984 season. Key parts were secured by Jim Holt who played Mr. Whiteside, and Kelli Formica who was Maggie Cutler.

Often, it is the behind-the-scenes work which goes unnoticed. Larry Bailer and Dale Grospitch (upper left) finish off countless hours of set-building with a little touchup paint. Additional backstage work includes costuming, lighting, and critiquing, and therefore the production of a play is a great team effort!

Talent Abounds In Art Wing . . .

"Art? NO, I asked what real classes you're taking!" Sound familiar? Even though there are no 'busy-work' assignments or stardardized tests, the arts are as essential as math and science. It is a form of self-expression.

Showcases seemed remarkably full of outstanding work, from wood-craft to graphic designs. Karen Gulachek's work (left) is an example of the diversity and skill of the class of '84. Acting as inspiration to her students, Mrs. Tabler poses with her portrait-like air brush painting (below).

Below: The Christmas spirit radiates from the faces of choir members as they end their performance and anticipate vacation.

Involved in the Winter Concert, the Pops Concert, the Spring Concert, and Contest, the Freshman Choir (opposite page middle) had an active year. At Contest, the ensemble received an excellent rating of II.

The Sophomore Choir (opposite page bottom right) also had a productive year. At contest, the girls received an excellent rating.

Some male members of the Senior Choir and Chamber Ensemble banded together to form the 1984 version of the Men's Choir (opposite page top left). A very successful and talented group, the ensemble received a superior rating at the district level contest which enabled them to compete in state contest in May.

Chamber Ensemble (opposite page top right) once again ventured downtown to the WEWS station to be part of the Morning Exchange. Other highlights of the year included the ensemble's superior performance at Contest. The group received a I, thus earning blue medals to don on their new choir robes.

SENIOR CHOIR: Front Row: B. Jump, L. Holy, J. Grimm, K. Urry, J. Morgan, M. Kalich, M. Dailey, T. Masuga. Row 2: M. Riglo, C. Silickas, J. Leist, S. Oktavek, L. Merriner, C. Wade, L. It was an educational year for the Senior Choir (bottom left) as eight members attended a choral workshop at Mount Union College. Also, eight senior members were selected to participate in the SWC All-Star Choir. Rehearsing for Contest took a majority of the year and as Cindy Summer and Debby Tyree discovered, intense concentration was needed to perfect the required numbers (above). However as Julie Fouse and Jim Holt demonstrate smiles and personal interpretations were also necessary (left). The choir earned an excellent rating of II

Wind Ensemble Strikes Harmony

Beginning the concert season in mid-November, Wind Ensemble had a productive year. Opening the season was the annual Winter Concert, marked by the performance of such favorites as 'Sleigh Ride' and 'Hallelujah Chorus.' Adding rhythm to the band and choral feature, President Garth Geist strikes the timpani (right).

For the first time in several years, Wind Ensemble entered district contest in class 'A' and received an excellent rating. Practicing for the tough competition, the percussion section rehearses a difficult rhythmic passage (below). Many of the selected pieces had solo passages like the one Bill Tschantz performs on baritone (below far right).

The highlight of the season occurred in the spring when the Ensemble practiced 'Armenian Dances' (middle right) for performance at the Spring Concert under the direction of Louis Chobanian, the composer. The trumpet section fingers through the next rehearsal number as they listen to Mr. Chobanian's criticism (below middle).

Symphonic Earns Excellent Rating

Dedicating the beginning of the year to preparing for their debut in Class C contest, Symphonic Band rehearses their required number (middle left). For the first time in many years, Symphonic Band competed in the District Contest held at Berea High School. Holding up the bass line, Scott Hook oom-pah-pahs during dress rehearsal (bottom right).

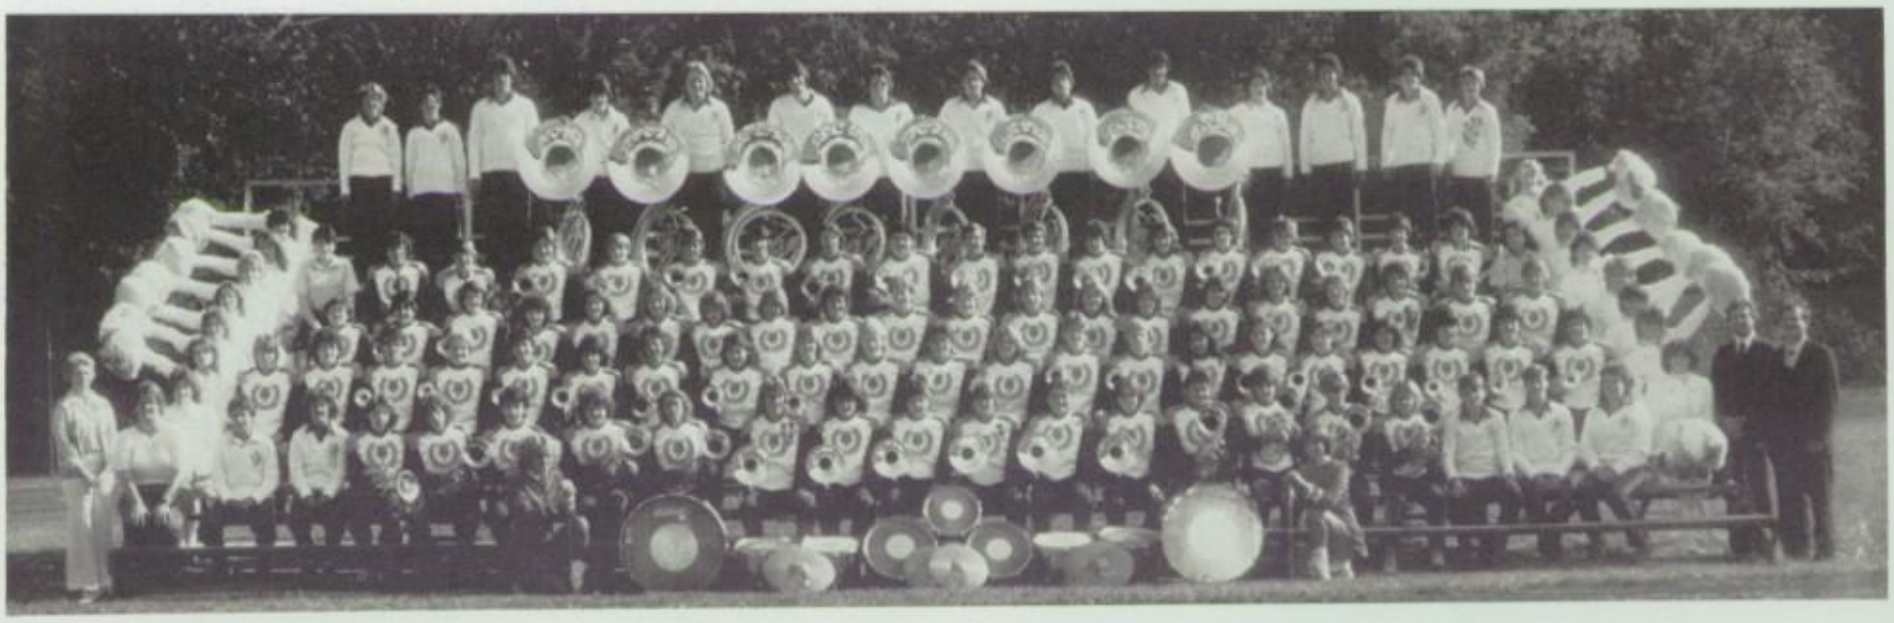
Half-Time Shows Dazzle Fans

Making up ⅛ of the student body, the band is the single largest organization at OFHS. Directors Stuber and Gulden, coordinating with Golden Bullet advisor Johnson (lower left) create unique routines and facilitate drills to insure peak performance.

In addition to long practices and tiring shows, band members also exhibit camradery in their Halloween spoofs and C-lunch antics, demonstrating that marching band can be enjoyable as well as productive and demanding.



GOLDEN BULLETS: First Row: Co-captains D, Tyree and L. Merriner. Row 2: B. Jump, J. Dunwoodie, C. Langwinski, H. Lynn, T. Oaklief, L. Covill. Row 3: W. Cavett, S. Rauske, J. Fouse, J. Householder, K. Pohnan, L. Sawyers, K. Combs, D. Provder.

MAJORETTES: Missy Wass and Debbie Terlep

Musicians Add Extra Performances

Powderpuff Marching Band is a subsidiary of the Pep Band. Prepared for serious action, Rusty Kucklick gives onlookers the evil eye (middle left). Mr. Stuber, who directs both bands, deserves much thanks for his gracious help during the off-school practice hours.

Some Seniors Just Naturally

Take To Teaching

Since Senior Teach Day never materialized in '83, it attracted a sizeable number of participants in '84. Teachers turned over anywhere from one to all of their classes to these temporary instructors who, in many cases, actually planned the lessons they taught.

Many teachers elected to stay in their classrooms, but others left the senior subs on their own, giving them the chance to 'sink-or-swim.'

Senior teachers filled in everywhere from the student office and cafeteria jobs to academic and industrial arts classes. In most cases, the students were very cooperative, and at the same time, they were both critical and demanding of the senior who stepped in to take their teacher's place.

Above: Debbie Tyree and Theresa Masuga help out in the cafeteria for their Senior Teach Day assignment. Here they display a tray of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches wrapped in hand-decorated packages.

Left: Relaxing after a strenuous day in the art department, three senior teachers pose attired in representative chapeaux. Temporary 'masters' for the day are Brad Marks, George Tusing, and Cara Stender.

Above left: Attempting to handle all of the jobs of an industrial arts teacher, Jim Polkar and Jon Knapp team up to ease the burden.

Some Things Just Naturally Go Together in...

Student Life

Homecoming 1983 . . .

Once again, the OFHS Student Council put together a spectacular Homecoming ceremony in what seemed to be only a few days' time. The traditional rose arch was found lining the candidates' way, with each rose-bearer representing the various clubs, groups, organizations, and other extra-curricular activities. The final candidates for this year's king and queen were Joel Funk, Paula Good, Garry Doherty, Jamie Ilko, Tom Dickson, Theresa Masuga, Jon Knapp, Lynn Sawyers, Jeff Baker, and Ellen Hurley. After days of student voting, tedious ballot tabulating, and several cases of anxiety and nervousness, reigning queen Candace Masuga graciously crowned this year's winners . . . Ellen Hurley and Tom Dickson. Also following in the OFHS Bulldog Homecoming tradition was the annual balloon launching. As half time proceeded, hundreds of blue and gold balloons were released into the night sky by Mrs. Kay Rimko, her PTA assistants, and the Bulldog cheerleaders; they were last seen drifting away on the cool evening breeze.

Far Right: At the opposite end of the field awaits the remaining half of the rose arch.

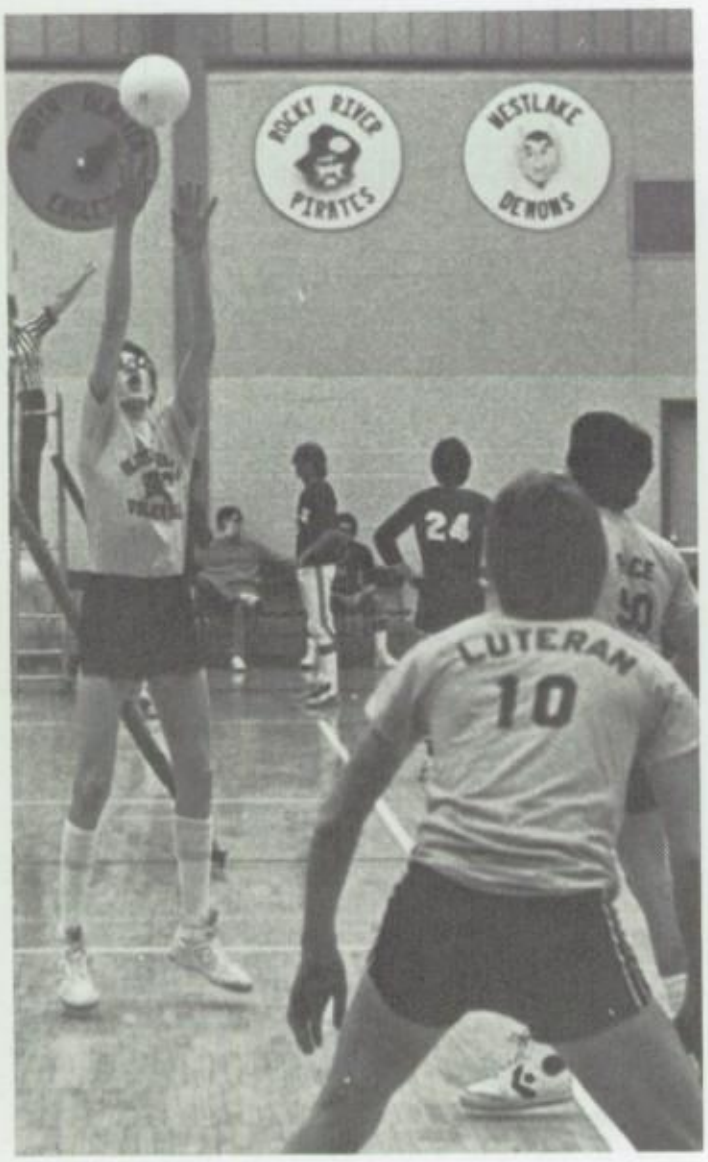
Some Things Are Just



boys' volleyball hits 'em hard

On March 30th the Fourth Annual Olmsted Falls Boys' Invitational Volleyball Tournament hosted teams from Avon Lake, Berea, Brooklyn, Columbia, Cuyahoga Valley, Firelands, John Marshall, and Midpark. In the six hour round robbin, each team played every other team, and the OFHS Bulldogs emerged victorious.

Though the OFHS power volleyballers got off to a slow start by getting upset in the second round, they rallied together to enter the championship game against Cuyahoga Valley. In that game, the Bulldogs ballooned to a 9-0 lead, but then Cuyahoga Valley retaliated, and the Bulldogs led only by a single point, 10-9. After exchanging points back and forth, the score read 15-14, in favor of CVCA. After a possible point by CVCA was disallowed when a player hit the net, the Bulldogs slammed back, led by the serving of Marty Zimmer. As a result, Olmsted Falls won 17-15 and successfully defended their volleyball crown.

According to Coach Moore, "The volleyballers finally played to their potential in the championship game." In the future, Coach Moore hopes to expand the number of teams allowed to participate in the tournament, but he would not have had the success of the '84 tournament without the professional touch of the Kiwanians, who supplied funds for trophies, line judges, and ticket takers.

Naturally Done For Fun

Even after a grueling battle of mud and bad weather, junior and senior powderpuffers still promote good sportsmanship.

powderpuffers wallow in the mud

Year after year, neither rain nor snow, nor sleet nor hail can prevent the senior powderpuff team from annihilating the juniors. Annihilation? Well, not exactly. This year's juniors showed definite improvement, being defeated by a mere 26-19, as opposed to last year's 40-0 shut-out.

With this annual event, fans have come to expect miserable weather—and this year was no exception. Neither team was immune, as every participant emerged more muddy than the field. And wherever mud is found, a mudfight is sure to follow, restoring circulation to frost-bitten limbs, dispersing any ill spirits, and repairing all battle-worn friendships.

Top Left Center: With only a minute to go, senior Paul Good sees that victory is still within reach.

Naturally Prom Together

'Love The World Away'

Once again, OFHS Junior Prom Committee sacrificed time and effort to make prom successful, regardless of a few minor setbacks. (Paper drive? Well, here's the paper . . . where's the truck?!) And even though sucker sales were outlawed, students raised almost $1200 for the occasion, with the tumbler sale being the most profitable project of the year.

St. Demetrios Greek Orthodox Church in Rocky River was the site of this extravagant festivity. Prom attendants were sophomores Monte Morrow, Tom Banks, Ali Chubb, and Gina Palumbo. Couples danced to the sounds of Silhouette.

Post-prom at North Olmsted Rec Center provided swimming, skating, and games-of-chance. The OF Kiwanians flipped flapjacks for breakfast, followed by a rousing (if not soggy) day at Cedar Point.

biology class tackles chicago

After a gratifying excursion to Chicago, Mr. Moore commented, 'This was the best bunch of kids I have ever taken.' With a new system of teacher recomendations, the forty-three specially selected students traversed The Windy City.

While most OFHS students were sleeping in during Memorial Day weekend, these students were aroused at 3 A.M. Friday and readied for their 4 A.M. departure. Exemplifying discipline and good conduct, this Chicago bunch thoroughly enjoyed the city scene, marvelling at the various wonders such as the Adler Planetarium, the Sear's Tower, the Atrium Mall, Ripley's Believe It or Not Museum, and the wide waterfront expanse of Lake Michigan. And, of course, Carson's Rib House was the highlight of the gourmet scene, contrary to such mundane eateries as McDonalds and Arbys.

The trip concluded at the Middle School parking lot with an emotional display, and many fond memories that will last a lifetime.

Jobs - A Necessity For Juniors

By Ron Sathre

College, prom, dates, a car, and up-to-date clothing are desired by high school juniors. The obstacles to acquiring all of these luxuries, however, is the lack of money!

Many juniors have acquired a job in order to help obtain these 'needs.' Some work at fast food chains like McDonalds. Others ring up sales or work in stock rooms at clothing stores, or they simply babysit or mow lawns.

Working has other advantages, aside from money. Juniors can simply work to keep busy. Others like to meet people; therefore they aim to please the customers. Often, if the right timing and combination of events occur, a job may lead to a date.

Like everything else in the world, work has its share of disadvantages. While working, rough hours must be endured. After-school-hours frequently mean working until as late as 11:30, then returning home to find more work—homework! Since the junior year is the most difficult, homework may last till 4:00 AM.

For many students of the Class of 1985, working is a great price to pay for the many luxuries these young people feel they need.

Putting in both after-school and weekend hours, Ray Haas packs groceries and stocks shelves at Meyos in Berea.

The Challenges Of Being Juniors

By Michelle Kalikin

Most students look forward to their junior year of high school with high hopes. They are anxious to become upperclassmen, to obtain more freedom, and to cash in their brownie points. The 'junior life' however, is not as simple as some anticipate it to be.

Juniors are kept busy, both in school and out, with such classes as English, U.S. History, chemistry, physics, Algebra II, and Math IV. The teachers are more demanding, and they expect more of third year students. Carrying full schedules, most juniors feel that this is their most difficult year.

While not in the classroom, juniors are occupied in other ways. Along with a plethora of homework and one to three term papers, some students must reserve time for clubs, sports, and jobs. Therefore, juniors need to put forth an even greater effort to maintain their grades.

As juniors, students find it necessary to begin planning their futures. If college is their goal, they must take tests, decide on a possible major, and enroll in the courses required. These decisions are often difficult, but are very important.

OFHS students usually accept the challenges of their junior year, and once it is over, they realize that it has been the obstacle course over which all high schoolers must pass before reaching the top level, seniority!

The Sophomore: A Sequel

For a sophomore the year does not always appear to be one filled with such momentous moments as being excused for assemblies first, or getting to leave after 5th period. Upperclassmen thrive on these flashes of excitement, but sophomores merely slump through the year.

However, there are a few highlights of the tenth grade year. Most important, of course, is getting a drivers' license. During those first few months after he has successfully passed the test, the sophomore driver is definitely a terror on the road. The first six weeks of the sophomore driving experience is a period of trial and error when many trips out of the driveway result in garbage cans flying into the air.

Another boggling and thrilling experience of the sophomore year is the wide selection of courses students can select. The only classes which are mandatory are health and its every-other-day counterpart, physical education. These two classes alone could be more than enough for the fragile intellects of the sophomores. But they accept the challenge and know that of all of their courses, these two offer almost more excitement than they can endure.

Equally stimulating for the sophomore is the acquisition of many new vocabulary words. The sophomore begins using the word 'cruising' which refers to the expert swerving and weaving about the city streets. His use of the word in upperclass circles suggests that he has vaulted into the range of social mobility.

Now really, isn't it obvious that seniors are not the only ones who have all the fun?

Music Charms Sophomores' Lives

By Debbie McGill

Sophomores are too old to be treated like freshmen and too young to be respected like upperclassmen. They seem to be stuck in limbo, waiting to move on to bigger and better things. The newness of everything has worn off, but they are too young to play powderpuff, and contracting 'Senioritis' is a long way off. Yes, what all sophomores experience is known by the upperclassmen as . . . The Sophomore Slump!

There are many ways to avoid being caught in the Sophomore Slump. For example, many students decide to remain freshmen for a few extra years, just to escape this traumatic situation. However, a small group of sophomores opted to deal with this situation in a different way-they turned to music as an escape.

If you think that musicians have it easy, put yourself in their shoes and just try to settle your nerves when you find yourself center-stage for four nights in front of SRO crowds, and you are expected to sing like an old pro. Traci Winkler handled this situation with ease, as she wowed crowds at a Cancer Benefit Show and received two standing ovations!

Or imagine that you are in an internationally acclaimed group, in which singing in front of thousands becomes second nature to you. Michelle Piotrowicz learned to deal with this kind of pressure when she was a member of the prestigious Singing Angels.

As you see, the Sophomore Slump can be avoided. Some solutions are better than others, but finding their niche as musicians has been the way out for some successful sophomores.

Freshman Quiz-Rate Yourself

ARE YOU A FRESHMAN?

Millions of students each year go through 'freshman crisis.' To identify this problem in its early stages, and to provide the recommended treatment, answer the following questions accordingly:

1. How many times in the last year have you missed your bus because you couldn't find a pair of socks that matched??
   A. 1-3
   B. 3-5
   C. an infinite number

2. Do you often find yourself suffering from muscle strain due to carrying every book you need for the whole semester?
   A. yes
   B. sometimes
   C. I'm no fool; I had Grandma buy me a Ranger Rick backpack.

3. Do you require map and compass to find the cafeteria?
   A. yes
   B. no
   C. Of course not. I'm always very careful to leave a trail of HO-HO crumbs whereever I go.

4. How many times in the last month have you asked an upperclassman for directions and ended up in Parma?
   A. 1-3
   B. 3-5
   C. more times than I care to admit

5. Is your locker combination tatooed on any part of your body?
   A. yes
   B. no
   C. Of course not. I painted it on the outside of my locker where I can see it easier.

6. How many passes to the nuclear reactor room do you carry?
   A. Mom holds it for me
   B. just one
   C. two - I always carry a spare.

7. Do the drinking fountains in the halls come up to your shoulders?
   A. yes
   B. no
   C. If the drinking fountains are in the hallways, then what are the white porcelin things on the wall in the bathrooms?

SCORING

If you checked answer C 1-3 times, avoid real people; they will be able to tell.

If you checked answer C 3-5 times, seek professional help; you are suffering from acute freshmanitus.

If you checked answer C 5-8 times, hide in your closet and finish the rest of the year by correspondence.

Freshmen Tumble Their Way To Success

By Karen Justavick

Tumbling their way to success are freshmen Laura Johnson and Michelle Reyes. Both girls are dedicated to improving their gymnastic skills, practicing 2½-4 hours every day. These workouts are often long and strenuous resulting in a longing only for a warm shower or a good night's rest.

After a 4 year gymnastics career for Laura and 7 years of training for Michelle, the two have reached level one in competition, the second highest level. They practice five days a week preparing for the fifteen to twenty competitions they enter per year. Gymnastic competitions consist of four different events: vault, bar, beam, and floor.

The hard work put forth by these two girls has reaped many rewards. This year Michelle won first in sectionals at the overall competition held in Avon Lake. She took fourth in State. Laura has also taken a first place in the state competition.

Both Michelle and Laura are very modest about their talents. When asked about future goals, the two gymnasts agreed that the Olympics are a long way off. But who knows what accomplishments lay in store for these gifted girls who are now stradling a very high beam.

Left: Splitting away from the rest of the crowd, freshmen Laura Johnson and Michelle Reyes reach for the top. Both girls are successful gymnasts who have succeeded in state competition.

Although the varsity football team has developed a reputation as a top defensive team in the SWC, this year the team concentrated on offense. To compensate for comparatively small players, and to give the team the element of surprise, an entirely new offense was installed.

Contrary to the past, the Bulldogs relied on the passing game for yards. For the most part, this strategy was effective as the team out-gained their opponents in all but two of the team's ten games.

With this new offense and a hard hitting defense, the Bulldogs were able to forge a 4-5-1 record, and place six players on the All-SWC first and second teams. Cornerback Garry Doherty (spec. ment. All-Ohio) and tight end Greg Sagerman (3rd team All-Ohio) earned first team, while cornerback Dan Roether, tackle Jon Knapp, guard Greg Miller, and quarterback Mike Seidewand earned second team honors.

Team recognition went to Sagerman, MVP; Mike Banks, MIP; Knapp, Lineman; Dennis Gareau, Underrated; Tom Sanner, Bulldog; and Roether and Doherty, Big Stick.

Jr. Gridders Show Promise

Although having a small roster, the JV gridders made the most of what they had. Comprised mainly of sophomores, the team finished the season with a 5-5 record. Coach Godfray commented, 'We had an excellent running attack led by John Gaba and Ray Siwek. Our defense was also excellent. The team was good all around, no selfish players. The passing game began okay, but weakened toward the end.'

The freshman team, on the other hand, had stronger reserves, yet finished an even 4-4. Although they finished at .500, the team put forth a strong effort in their defeats. Coach Emigh added, 'This was one of the hardest freshman teams, and they improved greatly over their eighth grade performance. Coach Emigh also pointed out that the squad has a lot of athletic talent, and they also have great potential for varsity play.

CROSS COUNTRY

Junior Tom Celebrezze strives for the finish in a dual meet against Westlake and Medina. This two year letterman and all-conference harrier led the team to a district trip for the first time in eleven years. The only male harrier competing in Columbus, Tom finished in a respectable middle of the pack position.

Harriers Run It Together

Many surprises filled the '83 season for the boys' cross country team, including a large team roster and a first year berth to the district meet. Although they suffered a 1-6 dual record, the average loss was only by seven points. Tom Celebrezze was honored MVP and Steve Churchin was awarded MIP. Next year's captains are Tom Celebrezze, Mike Warnock, and Tom Leckrone, With only two graduates, Coach Odon should have similar, if not better results next season.

On the other hand, the girls' cross country team endured a few disappointments. However, some successes brightened their dissatisfaction including broken records in the conference and sectional meets. Another bright spot was their cumlative 37-8 dual record.

For the third year in a row, Michelle Kalikin was voted MVP. Captain Lisa Moore was awarded MIP, and Kathy Urry captured the Most Dedicated award. With three of the top five harriers graduating, the team will need the help of underclassmen to maintain the girls' reputation as conference, sectional, and district contenders.

Senior Tim Webb pursues a conference foe and teammate Mike Salvatore. Although Tim was a first year runner, he earned a slot on the varsity squad.

MVP Sean Mills led the team with a 39.9 stroke average and Scott Mawaka's 2.8 stroke improvement named him the team's MIP. Coach Burns can look for similar, if not better results next year, as five lettermen return to the green.

Although the girls' tennis team did not sport a sparkiling record, first year Coach DeLisio commented that many of the matches were very close so the 'scores don't tell the story.' Their major upset was against a confident Rocky River team. But the Pirates' confidence was not enough since the Lady Bulldogs emerged victorious.

During tournaments, Lisa Fifolt went through three rounds of singles, and Kris Westerlund and Kerri Luteran made it through two rounds of doubles. Special recognition went to Missy Revelt, who received the MVP award and Lisa Fifolt who was voted MIP. Next year's captains are Missy Revelt and Kerri Luteran.

Spikers Lack Experience

It was not a productive year for the girls' varsity volleyball team, since they suffered a winless season. Inexperience once again plagued the lady volleyers as seven of their nine players participated at the varsity level for the first time. Nonetheless, there may have been a few bright spots despite the frustrations and disappointments.

An exciting and very close match against North Olmsted during the second game rallied the Bulldogs, but they came up short with a 14-16 deficit. For the second year in a row, captain Mary Schmidt was honored MVP. Mary was also named a member of the second all conference team. Other players who received special recognition were Darlene Kanz as the Most Dedicated and Chris Migliorino as the Most Improved.

The JV volleyball team suffered a similar fate, but they did manage to muster up a victory over conference foe Bay Village. The girls fought hard as many of their games were not finished until the third round.

Perhaps '83 can be considered a learning year for the volleyball teams; with a year of experience under their belts, they may return with hopes for a winning season in '84.

Grapplers Second In SWC

Winding up second in the SWC, the wrestling team posted a 9-3 dual meet record. This included victories over Strongsville, Columbus Worthington, Brooklyn, Bay, Fairview, Medina, Rocky River, Avon Lake, and Westlake. These were coupled with losses to RIchmond Heights, North Olmsted and North Royalton.

In the SWC tournament the Bulldogs were hoping for a first place finish and a third place finish by North Olmsted for a conference championship. Despite placing twelve of thirteen wrestlers, the team finished second in the tournament and in the SWC.

In the district tournament the Bulldogs finished second to Elyria Catholic by one point and advanced nine wrestlers to regional competition. The regionals were a let down for the grapplers as only senior captain and MVP Joel Funk advanced to state. Once at state Joel duplicated his previous year's third place and became one of only a few wrestlers to place at the state level in two years.

Earning all-conference honors were Funk and Steve Urry first team, and Greg Sagerman, Dennis Gareau, and Roger Tresch second team. Earning individual honors were Funk MVP and most takedowns; Urry, MIP; Sagerman and Randy Clayton, Bulldog award; and Robert Theriot, most pins. Next year's Captain will be Robert Theriot.

Retiring head coach Jim Emigh said, 'Realistically I was pleased with our season; however, it is always difficult to come so close to the top and not make it.'

JV Matmen Boast All-Time Best

Finishing out the season with an 8-3 record, the JV wrestling team posted the best finish for a JV squad in the history of OFHS. Having the largest number of members, eleven of the thirteen positions were filled.

At the season's start the team fell to a 1-3 record, but then rolled for seven straight victories to earn their outstanding record. Despite the fact that seven JV wrestlers were shipped up to varsity during the course of the season, the team had hopes of winning the JV tournament, but inclement weather conditions forced cancellation.

Coach Odon remarked, "The team showed lots of enthusiasm throughout the year despite the fact that several JV wrestlers were moved up to the varsity level. Most of these JV wrestlers will continue their wrestling careers and become excellent varsity grapplers."

JV Cagers Come Up Even

Closing out the season with an even 10-10 record, the boys' JV basketball team fought hard and hustled in every game. According to the coaches, the team played extremely well, considering they were such a young team. The roster included two starting freshmen, Kurt Vassily and Tony Formica, and Vince Riccobene who played regularly. Because of the experience of these underclassmen, there is great potential for next year's season.

The freshman boys' basketball team finished with a record of 4-9. Even though the record does not show it, the team worked hard and hustled throughout the season. First year coach, Lance Hemmerich remarked, 'Everyone on the team improved throughout the season,' and he feels that this improvement will carry over into next season.

Cagers Strive For Respect

Despite finishing the season with a 6-15 record, the varsity boys played an all-out aggressive game. Competing in the powerful SWC and battling strong non-conference opponents, they managed to put up a strong fight.

Sean Mills led in scoring with 414 total points and a 19.7 average per game. Leading in assists, Mark Terlep had 122. Bob Pace led in freethrow percentage with 85%.

Coach Cobb felt that, 'The team was a hardworking group, but they were always climbing up a hill, never able to quite reach the top.' According to MVP Sean Mills, 'Now that most of the returning players have had 1-2 years varsity experience, they have a realistic chance to be close to the top.' Captain Bob Pace remarked, 'Even though the team's record did not show it, we were in almost every game. Inexperience is what hurt us.'

Bob also felt that if the returning players work hard and listen to Coach Cobb, they could be contenders next year.

Girls Continue To Win

1983-'84 proved to be another successful year for the girls' varsity basketball team. Finishing 3rd in the SWC with a 10-4 record, the lady cagers' only losses were to the powerful North Olmsted and Westlake teams. Their season ended at 18-5 in the district opener against Chagrin Falls.

The squad was inundated with talent, as three players, Jackie Bizzack, Jolie Bokmiller, and Paula Good, earned berths to the All-Conference and All-Sectional teams; they were also selected for the Cleveland Plain Dealer Dream Team.

A new record was established for least points allowed, garnering these Bulldogs the best defensive team in girls' basketball history. Jackie Bizzack earned the top slot as the leading rebounder. Other honors went to Jolie Bokmiller and Paula Good as co-MVP's and Linda Kalikin as MIP. Penny McDonald captured the Bulldog Award and Mary Schmidt earned a trophy for leading field goal percentage.

The JV team, also sporting a 10-4 conference record, tied with Westlake in the SWC. Six records fell with sophomore Holly Kreitzer conquering three of them. She had most points scored, most free throws made, and most free throws attempted. Sophomore Jenny Yesenko nabbed the most steals and assists, and sophomore Jennifer Theriot claimed the highest free throw percentage.

Underclassmen Produce Wins

Finally ending a losing streak, the Bulldog icers pulled off three official victories largely because of underclassmen. The team actually had a fourth win, but that game was forfeited due a player's ineligibility.

Five of the six starting positions were held by underclassmen who were a big help. This year's freshmen attempted to recapture their eighth grade form when they took fourth place in their division.

Next year the team will be in a new division containing the two teams that the young Bulldog icers beat.

Pat Pignataro, the only starting senior, was voted MVP. He also received Honorable Mention All-Southwestern Conference. Senior Frank Conrad captured the MIP award.

Keglers Have Record Year

The 1983-84 version of the bowling team had the best year ever for a team from Olmsted Falls. The team competed in the Alpha division of the Greater Cleveland Interscholastic Bowling League, which is divided into two catagories, scratch and handicap. For lack of space, the scratch is actual score while handicap theoretically makes all bowlers even.

Coach Barbee led the Bulldogs to the Alpha division in both handicap and scratch divisions. Then the team faced Central Catholic for the league handicap championship and defeated them handily 5-2. In the scratch division championship the Bulldogs faced the Meteors of Midpark. Despite rolling a record game of 1129 and a record series of 3102, Olmsted Falls lost 2-5 and the best bowling season in Olmsted Falls history.

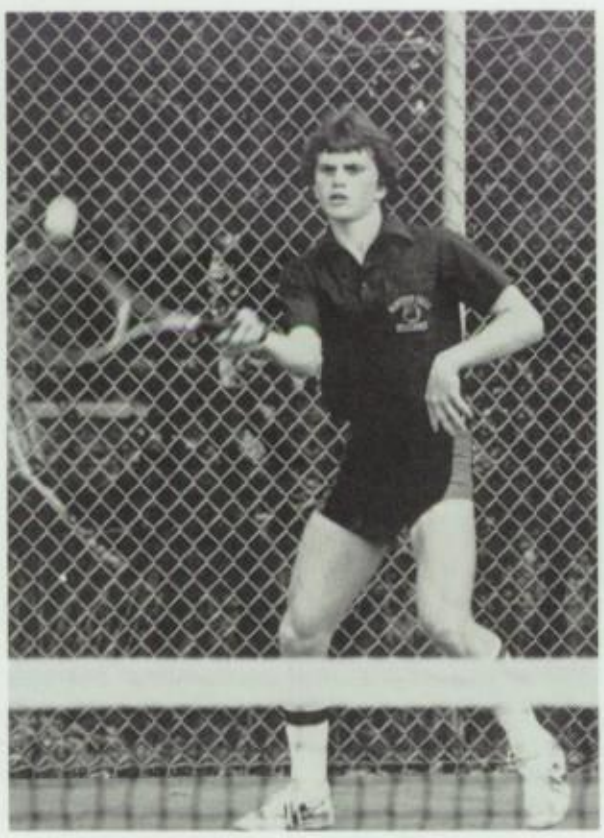
Inexperience Faults Netters

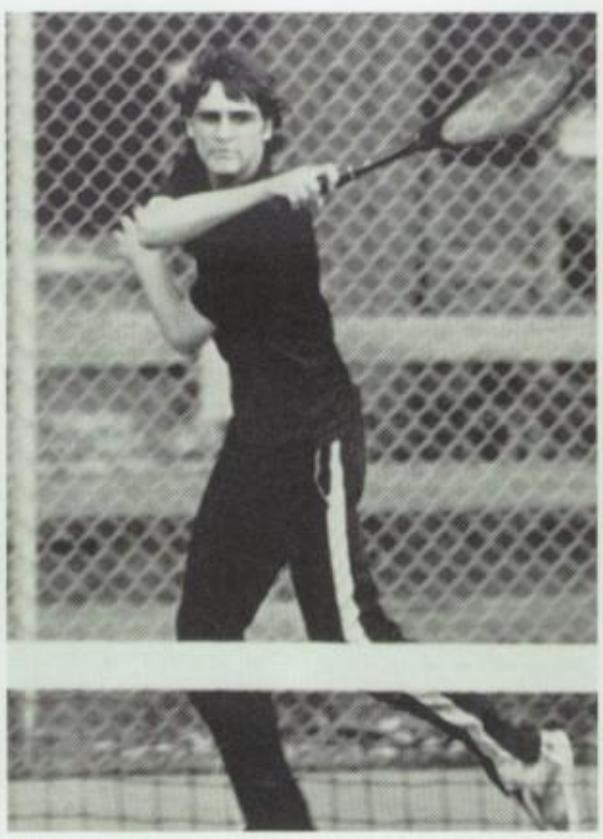
Completing the season with a record of 3-15, the boys' tennis team had what Coach Burns termed, 'a learning experience.' Even though the team lacked experience on the court, they fought hard in every match.

Backed by veterans Sean Mills and Jim Luteran, the team advanced to sectionals where Jim and Sean won the doubles match. This was the fifth consecutive year that OFHS placed in doubles competition.

Jim Luteran also was fourth in the SWC in singles competition. At the banquet, honors went to Paul Schmitz, MIP and Jim Luteran, MVP.



Concentrating on the ball, Junior Paul Schmitz squares up for a perfect return.



To take his opponent off guard, junior Bill Scheutz resorts to contortionistic form.

Rising to meet the challenge, senior co-captain Jim Luteran smashes the ball with determination.

Named to the Sun News All-Star team, senior Linda Kalikin accepts the lead-off batter challenge on her way to earning the highest batting average for the Bulldogs.

Softball Contends With Weather

Even though the OFHS softball team finished the season with a record of 4-10 they played tough and aggressive in every game. The team was plagued by poor weather conditions and inexperience.

The club boasted a strong offensive attack, with five batters hitting over .300. According to Coach Ryan the team was hurt by poor weather conditions because they were unable to play consecutive games. He also stated, 'The team must be able to play better defense in the future.'

At the softball banquet senior Linda Kalikin received Co-MVP honors and was also elected to first team all-SWC. Senior Michelle Felgar was also named MVP, while Leigh Torgerson was MIP. Renee Bregar earned the Coach's Award, and Highest Batting Average went to Linda Kalikin.

Sophomore John Ilko, who earned a varsity letter for his efforts in the pole vault, is on his way to another attempt to clear 10'6".

Thinclads Keep The Pace

Consistency and depth proved to be the major factors for both the boys' and girls' success for the '84 season. Finishing 3-4 in the conference, the boys did not produce any champions. However, according to Coach Sanders, many 2nd and 3rd bests in Bulldog history were recorded.

Leading the way was senior co-captain Alan Reed. Voted MVP, Al ran the 3200m relay and the 800m and 1600m runs throughout the season. His 4:28 mile time earned him a trip to the state meet where he ran to a ninth place finish.

Leading the field events were Mike Banks in the long jump, Jeremy Wood in the pole vault, Tim Flint in the discus, and Ken Atkins in the shot put. All four qualified to the regional meet. Also qualifying were hurdlers Bill Smetana and Trevor Whiteley in the 100m highs and the 300m lows, respectively. Distance standouts were Tom Celebrezze, Tom Leckrone, and Mike Salvatore.

Coach Jeff Chase's girls parlayed their usual winning season with four major championships and four school records. Once again, junior co-captain Michelle Kalikin led the way. Her fortes in the 1600m and 3200m runs won her places in the state meet. Coming close to her own school record, Michelle's 5:03.07 mile time placed her second, and her 11:23.8 3200m time placed her third in Columbus.

Also qualifying to the state meet was Mary Schmidt. Mary improved two places from last year to a fourth place with a toss of 124'8" in the discus. Junior Jenny Grogan established school, conference, and district records in the 300m low hurdles, and freshman Leah Wade broke the school record in the 100m dash.

Sharing an equally successful season, the freshman team finished first in the conference with a 10-1 record. New records were set by Ray Knestrick for 264 points in a season and 11.7 in the 100m dash. According to Coach Godfray, the team had excellent performances overall.

Rain Scrubs Most Of Bulldog Season

Rainouts were the story of this year's baseball season. Over thirteen of the Bulldog games were postponed due to rain or poor field conditions.

Despite the continuous struggle with inclement weather, the Bulldogs managed to come up even with an overall record of 9-10.

Senior Dale Looby, the team's batting leader, hit 480 and also pitched a five-inning no-hitter against Cleveland Central Catholic. Looby was also named to the Sun News all-star team, was elected MVP, and was honored with Batting Champ Award, RBI Award, and the Pitchers Award.

Bulldog Award went to Greg Sagerman, while the Underclassman Award was earned by Scott Mawaka.

Six of the Bulldogs' nine starters were seniors, all veterans except for Shawn McNea who secured the position of starting catcher, his first job in varsity baseball.

Selling donuts every other Friday and sponsoring dances are only some of the activities the OFHS Student Council performed during 1983-1984. Led by president Mary Schmidt, her board of officers, and advisor Mr. Niforos, Student Council generated new ideas and gave new spirit to traditional ones. With a full treasury, Council was able to sponsor free dances and complimentary car washes. Since funding was not a problem, they livened up drab lockers with decorations of Christmas trees and Valentines.

New projects enacted by Student Council were: blue and gold sweatpants sales, a pep rally bonfire in the fall, and the financial assistance which helped purchase a new sound system for the school. The extra money needed for the cover design of the '84 Senorio was also donated by Student Council.

Boasting one of the largest membership rosters for OFHS clubs, Key Club continued its goal to provide service to school and community. Projects included Olmsted Falls cleanups and arts and crafts at Jenkins center.

Assisting Kiwanis with the Pancake Breakfast, Fish Fry, and special banquets, Key Club maintained a busy schedule. But work and service were not the only priorities, since members took time out for tobogganing, Christmas parties, and dance planning. President Tracy Behrend culminated her office with a productive and service-filled year.

Serving as Lieutenant Governor for the Cuyahoga County Key Club district, senior Ellen Hurley traveled to several schools and to state-wide Key Club meetings in Columbus throughout her term in office. At the state convention held in Cleveland on March 17-18, Ellen was selected Lieutenant Governor-of-the-Year by the Ohio Key Club governor.

LAB ASSISTANTS Ignite Interest

♀♂ , 6.02×10^{23}, $E=mc^2$

Aiding teachers by grading papers, setting up equipment for experiments, and running errands are all a part of a lab assistant's job. According to Mr. Venefra, 'The lab assistants are very important to the science teachers. They allow us to work more with classroom activities.' As a thank-you for their services, the science teachers entertained the assistants at Mr. VanArsdale's house in the spring. Although the Black River proved to be too tough for Mr. Venefra to handle, the picnic was enjoyed by all.

Skiers Experience UPS and DOWNS

Although the inclement winter weather intimidated both motorists and pedestrians, nothing stopped OFHS students who became skiing enthusiasts. Traveling to Boston Mills every Wednesday night was the highlight of the week for beginning to advanced skiers. While the experienced skiers executed such slopes as 76 and Tiger, many newcomers spent more time on the ground than on their feet. Other skiers though, attempted jumps and turns while some became fast friends with the fireplace. Despite the challenges of even the toughest Boston Mills slopes, all skiers survived the season accident-free.

During 1983-84, AFS welcomed Australian Cathy Bange and Belgian Muriel Wibert to OFHS. Cathy and Muriel brought much of their culture with them and throughout the year they shared it with the Olmsted Falls community. A friendly game of Cricket from Australia was the highlight of one fall Saturday afternoon, and slideshows from both countries entertained classes, pot luck dinners, and AFS meetings throughout the year.

Among other AFS activities was a Christmas party with the Spanish theme 'pinata.' Cathy and Muriel also participated in an exchange weekend with area AFS students. The club members helped distribute Las Luminaries at Christmas and concluded the year's events with the annual AFS pot luck dinner.

Librarians STACK Up

Despite the hassles from persistent students, the non-return of books, and the stampede of frantic term paper classes which inevitably descend upon them, the library staff somehow manages to maintain stability and good will.

Mrs. Beresky, Mrs. Stetz, Mrs. Holzheimer, and Mr. Underwood answer innumerable questions throughout the year for many curious students . . . especially when the term paper season sets upon OFHS.

The librarians are very resourceful and knowledgeable in fields ranging from the ever-popular Mark Twain to the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

Although their services are in constant demand, the OFHS library staff maintains a great deal of patience as they assist strggling students.

They are also called upon by faculty members who need audio-visual equipment. This is just one more of the many jobs performed by the cooperative library personnel.

Mrs. Beresky, Mr. Underwood, Mrs. Stetz.

OFFICE AIDS Answer Call For Help

How many times have you held your breath in hopes that an office aid would not appear to call you up to Mr. Landolfo or Mr. Sander's office? Or have you ever wished that an office aid would suddenly appear at the door to rescue you from a pop quiz or a hard- to- understand lecture? In addition to these two jobs, office aids also answer phones, collect attendance slips, distribute supplies, and assist the secretaries in their clerical duties.

When asked about the demands and joys of the job, office aid Lisa Claycomb suggested that it certainly beat the boredom of studyhall. According to Student Office secretary, Mrs. Galyen, "It is definitely an honor to be selected to work in here." While answering the phone, coping with interruptions, and sorting paper work, Mrs. Galyen said that the office aids really were an important part of efficient office procedure.

Muriel And Cathy Share Cultures

As is customary every year, at least one AFS student comes to OFHS from a foreign country. In 1984 two exchangers, Belgian Muriel Wibert and Australian Cathy Bange spent their stay in America in the homes of Olmsted Falls families. Cathy lived with the Arons, and Muriel resided with the Smith family.

Coming from the French speaking part of Belgium, Muriel's home is directly north of France. Belgium is noted for its intricate lace, fine beer, waffles, brussels sprouts, and delicious chocolates. While in the U.S., Muriel participated in many school activities including track, drama, and senior choir. She especially enjoyed art, winning an award in the Scholastic Art Award Competition for her sculpture of an eagle's wing.

Cathy Bange, who hails from Tawoomba, Queensland, in eastern Australia, spoke of flying airplanes and pub-hopping in her native land. At OFHS Cathy also joined track and Masquers. She was frequently seen at dances, games, and other extra-curriculars, spreading her cheer from down under.

Graduation caps off a fun-filled year for AFSers, Cathy Bange and Muriel Wibert. For most of OFHS's exchange students, graduation ceremonies are often more elaborate compared to what they have experienced in their home countries.

SPANISH Pinata Is Full Of Fun

A Halloween party, a pinata contest, and a trip to a Force game were only a few activities of the Spanish Club. The group also went bowling at Buckeye Lanes and planned parties for the various holidays. At the end-of-the-year dinner, the club surprised Mrs. Bachman with a singing telegram which thanked her for a great year. As a momento, seniors received a pin bearing the emblem of a Spanish shield.

The people behind the scenes of any athleitc event are often overlooked. Statisticians keep track of assists, yardage, as well as free throws and fouls. Their work is used at team meetings and at end-of-the-year awards.

Also behind the scenes are the much appreciated managers, who give up their after-school hours and many evenings to tape ankles and to help organize equipment.

Gym leaders are students who give up their study halls to assist gym classes. Their responsibilities range from leading warm-up exercises to taking attendance. The leaders also participate in activities when players are needed to fill out teams.

HOME EC CLUB Stirs Up Active Year

Row 1: M. Barkto, C. Capretta, J. Sommer, P. Buckwald, M. Manila, L. Holy, K. Ponsford.

Not displaying impressive numbers of members, the Home Ec Club is probably more active than many of the larger clubs at OFHS. Activities included a fall field trip to a cake decorating show. Their Christmas party was not to be out-done by their Easter project, the construction of bunny hutches. The year's finale was the annual banquet at the Brown Derby.

COE-Muting Between School And Work

COE stands for Cooperative Office Education. It is a vocational program for high school seniors who attend school part-time and work part-time in an office-oriented training station.

Diversions for the COE class were field trips to Bonnie Bell, Bryant and Stratton, and Sawyer Business College. On the '83-84 agenda COE hosted guests from Barbizon Modeling School and Sawyer College.

Always stressing the need for language skills, COE placed Kim Combs 7th in the spelling contest. Accounting skills earned Diana Jackson a 4th place in the accounting contest. Adding relaxation to their busy schedules, members of COE enjoy each other's company at breakfast once a month.

OWE-pening up Opportunities to Work

Row 1: D. McMahan, S. Kuna, L. Barber, S. Dietes, L. Rupert, D. Coddeluppi. Row 2: Advisor Mr. Zimovan, B. Hahner, J. Hughes, K. Wheeler, T. Franco, J. Bohman, J. Dietes, J. Kindel, T. Lundsford.

Occupational Work Experience combines learning with working in order to prepare students for future employment. This program gives the student an opportunity to receive a diploma while gaining valuable job skills.

Under the supervision of Mr. Frank Zimovan, the students learn to accept responsibility and relate positively to other people both in school and on the job. Although the class does not participate in regular school events, one Friday a month is reserved for social activities. These include going bowling and going out for breakfast.

At the end of the school year, the students leave OFHS with confidentce in themselves and in their ability to apply the skills they have acquired to their present occupation.

Right: Joining Spotlight when she was a sophomore, Cara Stender was on the staff when the newspaper had its own advisor, and the staff did not have to double as yearbook experts. When the two staffs merged, Cara became editor of the Spotlight as a junior and continued in that role as a senior. During this two year period Cara has held the main editorial position, does some cartooning, and also writes news stories.

Left: Supplying a newspaper and a yearbook staff with all the necessary pictures is a job for 4-year veteran, Jason Redinger, center, who is assisted by 3-year veteran Mike Yuhas, right, and sophomore, Roy Nalazek, left. Jason and Mike have taken over 70% of the pictures in the '84 Senorio and all the pictures for Spotlight. In addition, they put together the slide shows for both the senior class and the track banquet. Jason and Mike, both seniors, hope to have careers in photography, and they have learned a great deal about the pressure of deadlines by working with the OFHS Publications Staff.

. . . Publications' Merger More Natural In '84

A Letter To The Editors:

Dear Michael, Ellen, and Tracy,

As four years of hard work culminate in your ultimate goal, your senior yearbook, we congratulate you for your efforts with the Senorio. Has it really been that long since you happily announced that you had been chosen for the yearbook staff, three freshmen in a sea of upperclassmen, eager to learn and excited about this new adventure?

Little did you know what those four years would bring! You discovered the wonderful world of croppers, margins, copy, themes and Ad Day - the worry of 'will we ever get enough' and the jubilation this year of 'where will we ever put all of them?'

Nothing, however, can describe 'D-Days' - those dreaded deadlines! How can you forget those late nights at Charlie's, hours at school when everyone else had left for summer vacation, and living rooms strewn with senior biographies, sport pics, and more copy. What a relief it was when all pages were delivered and postmarked - almost on time!

The Senorio has risen to new heights under the direction of Mrs. Chubb and your staff. Color pages became a reality, and two staffs became one as the Spotlight joined Senorio to create 'Publications.' Despite inevitable frustrations and setbacks, each yearbook has been better than the last, a creative and sophisticated publication.

As the Senorio grew, so did you. Four years of dedication has developed skills in leadership and decision-making and has increased your ability to work with others. We are extremely proud of our editors, and hope you share that pride in all that you have achieved. Our wish is that you will continue to grow, to explore life, and to cherish the friendships you have made.

Congratulations,
Mr. and Mrs. Banks
Mr. and Mrs. Hurley
Mr. and Mrs. Behrend

Assembling for the last time, graduates, parents, and friends reflect upon the course education has taken the Class of '84. Memories of hard work, late nights, gruelling competition, victories, friendships, and special moments fill the minds of all. Diplomas are only a symbol of the effort, perseverence, and accomplishments of high school. As a unified class commences as separate individuals, everyone will pursue different courses. However, upon reminiscing about the days at OFHS, one will always remember teachers and courses, classmates and achievements, friends and special events, because . . . 'Some Things Just Naturally Went Together.'
